Laurence Equilbey and Insula orchestra brandish Suffragette Tricolour by its original manufacturer for International Women’s Day at the Barbican Centre

Thursday 8 March 2018
Barbican Centre, London

Beethoven Triple Concerto
Farrenc Symphony no. 3

Alexandra Conunova violin
Natalie Clein cello
Elisabeth Brauss piano
Insula orchestra
Laurence Equilbey conductor

To mark International Women’s Day, Laurence Equilbey and Insula orchestra will bear the Suffragette’s Tricolour with ribbons made by the original manufacturer, Toye, for tonight’s concert at the Barbican.

Laurence Equilbey is a pioneer for male/female equality in classical music, and has been working to encourage the rediscovery of female composers such as Louise Farrenc, whose Symphony no.3 she will be conducting tonight. She also will be programming the works of Clara Schumann, Fanny Mendelssohn and Clemence de Grandval in upcoming concerts. Insula orchestra looks forward also to inviting top female artists and stage designers such as Emmanuelle Haïm, Susanna Mälkki, Séverine Chavrier and Pascale Ferran to La Seine Musicale.

Toye, Kenning and & Spencer, established in 1685, made the first Suffragette sash and ribbon in 1908, and still make them using the same production methods. The company, who hold a Royal Warrant for medal ribbons and regalia, were supportive of the suffragette cause. They had 200 women working on their factory looms and were well aware of the value of a woman’s work, so provided sashes and ribbon to the suffragettes for free.
The iconic purple, white and green sash was first used at Women’s Sunday on 21st June 1908, the first grand-scale meeting of the Women's Social and Political Union, when thousands of women gathered in Hyde Park to campaign for the vote. After this day, the sash and its colours became an important part of the suffragette ‘uniform’, and would have been worn at processions, protests and public meetings. The distinctive colours were chosen to distinguish them as a political movement, but also had their own meanings.

Emmeline Pethick-Lawrence explained in the political newspaper Votes for Women:

“Purple as everyone knows this is the royal colour, it stands for the royal blood that flows in the veins of every suffragette, the instinct of freedom and dignity.. white stands for purity in private and public life.. green is the colour of hope and the emblem of spring”.

Insula orchestra and its pioneering conductor Laurence Equilbey, whose new concert hall opened in Paris last spring, return to the Barbican on Thursday 8 March. Equilbey dedicates the programme to the rarely-performed music of Louise Farrenc (1804-1875), pairing her Symphony no.3 with Beethoven's Triple Concerto with violinist Alexandra Conunova, cellist Natalie Clein and pianist Elisabeth Brauss.

Following piano tuition with Hummel and later composition with Anton Reicha (a friend of Beethoven’s), Louise Farrenc gained considerable fame as a performer. Only after seven years as Professor of Piano at the Paris Conservatoire did Farrenc receive the same pay as her male counterparts. She held the post for 30 years becoming one of the most successful and sought-after piano pedagogues of her time.

INSULA ORCHESTRA AT HOME, ON TOUR AND ON CD

In September, Laurence Equilbey opened Insula orchestra’s first season at their critically-acclaimed new home La Seine Musicale celebrating the multi-media capabilities of their Shigeru Ban-designed concert hall to their full potential. Opened in spring, Insula orchestra’s 1,150-seater concert hall at La Seine Musicale was met with enthusiasm by audiences and press. Equilbey’s mission is to reform the entire experience of classical music with bite-size, multi-media concerts, flash-mobs and themed weekends with Insula orchestra and by programming guest performances.

Watch Insula Orchestra at their new home La Seine Musicale

Neue Zürcher Zeitung’s reaction to “the promised This is the future” was “it was difficult to contradict, but in the south-west of Paris there was not only another fabulous concert hall, but the first evening demonstrated with a lightness of touch how good old classical music can look like today.” (Christian Berzins)

“I couldn’t be happier having arrived at La Seine Musicale last spring and embarked on our first full season at our new home. It offers a safe haven to develop innovative music concepts, explore forgotten repertoire and direct outreach projects in all confidence, beyond limits and with all of those who support us.

– Laurence Equilbey

Insula orchestra is now in demand across the globe, having recently opened the new Abu Dhabi Louvre complex. Laurence Equilbey and Insula orchestra have toured Poland with two of the great symphonies; Mozart's Symphony no.41 Jupiter and Schubert's Symphony no.9 La Grande - the last two symphonies written by the respective composers. They will continue to tour with the revival of Haydn’s Creation directed by Fura dels Baus’. The production was a textbook exercise in presenting an 18th-Century oratorio with the visual magic of the natural world (while Adam and Eve frolicked in a water pool) while still capturing the naivety of Haydn’s era. New dates to be announced.

Watch Insula Orchestra at the inauguration of Abu Dhabi’s Louvre here

FORTHCOMING RECORDINGS

Beethoven Piano Concert N. 4 & 5
Nicholas Angelich, Insula orchestra, Laurence Equilbey
Warner Classics Erato – Autumn 2018

Beethoven Triple Concerto, Choral Fantasy
Bertrand Chamayou, Alexandra Conunova, Natalie Klein, David Kadouch, accentus, Insula orchestra, Laurence Equilbey
Warner Classics Erato – Spring 2019

LA SEINE MUSICALE
Since its opening in April 2017 Insula orchestra has become the vibrant resident ensemble of the new concert venue in Paris on the ile Seguin: La Seine Musicale. Commissioned by the Departement des Hauts-de-Seine, the former Renault factory was transformed into a carbon neutral arts centre as part of an on-going transformation of the industrial site into a vibrant residential, cultural and commercial quarter. The multi-purpose music venue boasts two concert halls – a 1,150-seater auditorium and an arena allowing up to 6,000 visitors – four recording studios, restaurants and retail spaces, which will be at the heart of the cultural revitalisation of the area.

Architects Shigeru Ban and Jean de Gastines have conceived a structure like a boat floating on the Seine using the latest innovations in environmental technology and in sync with the days and the season. An adaptable sail constructed of solar panels moves around the central dome to maximize energy and to provide shade inside the building. The wood and glass dome - evocative of a nest - is repeated on the inside with overlapping wooden panels and suspended honey-comb panels to optimize acoustics. The acoustics have been honed by Nagata Acoustics and Lamoureux, world leaders in their field who recently completed the Philharmonie in Paris.

“Equilbey’s programming and presentation ideas are anything but insular. The orchestra is a period-instrument ensemble, but she compensates for its limitations in repertoire by spanning the art forms, with cinema, theatre and dance elements integrated into the concerts.”

The Times

"the faces at the Mozart weekend I attend are undeniably fresher. [...] while Insula continues to deliver a high standard of period-instrument performance, you feel that Equilbey’s openness to experimentation will likely land on the right formula."

Cusp Magazine

"Instead of etiquette it is all about experiencing music. Insula orchestra has outreach all written over it. There are community projects, flash-mobs and events for children. La Seine Musicale should be an open house for all people."

Badische Zeitung

"Hardly 100 days after the opening of the Elbphilharmonie in Hamburg, Paris counters with La Seine Musicale and shows how easy it is to bring Mozart and
Insula orchestra

Founded by Laurence Equilbey and the Hauts-de-Seine General Council in 2012, Insula orchestra is the resident ensemble at the new Parisian arts centre La Seine Musicale. In its short history, appearances at major venues and high-profile festivals throughout France and on the international concert stage have earned the orchestra a reputation for artistic excellence. Recent visits included the Philharmonie of Paris, Theater an der Wien, Salzburg Mozart Week, Stadtcasino Basel and London’s Barbican Centre.

Insula orchestra’s repertoire ranges from the Classical to the Romantic eras, with Mozart, Schubert and Weber at its core in both symphonic and choral programmes. Performing on period instruments, its playing is adapted to the acoustics of today’s large concert halls. The musicians, based around a core of renowned section leaders, also perform chamber music.

In the Hauts-de-Seine department, the orchestra is engaged in a wide range of cultural and educational activities whose aims include increasing the musical awareness of potential audiences and those who are new to classical music, as well as educational and outreach projects involving young people and schools. The orchestra also reconsiders the formats and codes of classical music to create an on-going dialogue between symphonic music and audiences in the spatial dimension of the concert hall and stage.

The orchestra embraces digital art and regularly presents innovative, multi-medial projects: flash-mobs like the arrival at Charles de Gaulle Airport edited on Beethoven’s Eroica, the Happening musical at the Salle du Jeu de Paume (Versailles) in 2015, and the virtual reality production Mozart 360°.

Insula orchestra pays particular attention to vocal soloists, having worked with artists such as Sandrine Piau, Werner Güra, Franco Fagioli and Ann Hallenberg recently. The orchestra also performs with prestigious soloists on period instruments such as Antoine Tamestit (violinist), Abdel Rahman El Bacha and Kristian Bezuidenhout (pianists).

Insula orchestra’s 2017/18 season focuses on Beethoven in Spring with new recordings and a staged version of Goethe’s Egmont to open the season. This production by Séverine Chavrier will tour to the Theater an der Wien after performances at La Seine Musicale. Another highlight is a staged version of Mozart’s Thamos, King of Egypt and the ensemble will focus on rediscovering works by female French composers Louise Farrenc, Hélène de Montgeroult and Lili Boulanger with performances in Paris, Aix-en-Provence and London.

Insula orchestra’s discography consists of Mozart’s Requiem, with Sandrine Piau, Sara Mingardo, Werner Güra and Christopher Purves (Naive, 2014), Gluck’s Orfeo ed Euridice with Franco Fagioli (Deutsche Grammophon, 2015) and Mozart’s Solemn Vespers and Coronation Mass with Sandrine Piau (Warner Classics Erato, 2017). A recording of Schubert Lieder with Stanislas de Barbeyrac and Wiebke Lehmkuhl to be released in October 2017 on the Warner Classics Erato label, with whom two further recordings are planned of works by Beethoven.

Laurence Equilbey
Conductor and musical director of Insula orchestra and accentus, Laurence Equilbey is acknowledged for her demanding, yet open-minded approach to her art. Her exploration of the symphonic repertoire has seen her conducting BBC National Orchestra of Wales, the orchestras of the Hessische Rundfunk, Lyon, Bucharest, Liège, Leipzig, Brussels Philharmonic, Café Zimmermann, Akademie für alte Musik Berlin, Concerto Köln, Camerata Salzburg, Mozarteum-orchester Salzburg.

In 2012, with support from the Hauts-de-Seine General Council, she founded Insula orchestra, an ensemble devoted to the classical and pre-Romantic repertoire, using period instruments. In April 2017 the period instrument ensemble started their residency at the new arts centre La Seine Musicale, where Equilbey is in charge of the classical music programme of the 1.150 seater Auditorium.

With accentus, Laurence Equilbey continues to interpret the great vocal repertoire such as the recent performance with the Orchestra of the Opéra de Rouen of Comala by Niels Gade in June 2017. She is an associate artist of the Grand Théâtre de Provence in Aix-en-Provence, a companion of the Philharmonie de Paris and Artistic Director and Director of Education at the Department for Young Singers at the CRR, Regional Conservatoire of Paris. She regularly conducts the Orchestra of the Opéra de Rouen.

Past operatic engagements comprise of Mozart’s Lucio Silla at the Theater an der Wien, Britten’s Albert Herring by Britting at Opéra de Rouen and Opéra Comique, the ballet Sous apparence at Opéra de Paris, Reynaldo Hahn’s Ciboulette at the Opéra Comique where Laurence Equilbey will conduct La Nonne sanglante by Gounod in June 2018.

On the concert stage recent guest conducting engagements included the Danisch National Choir and Symphony Orchestra, BBC National Orchestra of Wales and the Frankfurt Radio Symphony (HR Sinfonie Orchester) in Germany, which was broadcast live.

At their new residency, La Seine Musicale, Laurence Equilbey and Insula orchestra plan to record two new Beethoven discs on the Warner Classics Erato label this season and in October 2017 a new CD of Schubert Lieder with Stanislas de Barbeyrac and Wiebke Lehmkuhl was released. Their current discography consists of Mozart’s Requiem (Naïve, 2014), Gluck’s Orfeo ed Euridice (Deutsch Grammophon, 2015), Mozart’s Solemn Vespers and Coronation Mass (Warner Classics Erato, 2017).

DISCOGRAPHY

SCHUBERT Lieder with orchestra - 2017
Stanislas de Barbeyrac, Wiebke Lehmkuhl, accentus, Insula orchestra, conducted by Laurence Equilbey
Label Warner Classics Erato

MOZART Solemn Vespers, Coronation Mass - 2017
Sandrine Piau, Renata Pokupic, Benjamin Bruns, Andreas Wolf, accentus, Insula orchestra, Laurence Equilbey
Label Warner Classics Erato
GLUCK Orfeo ed Euridice - 2015
original version (Vienna 1762), including highlights of Vienna and Paris versions (1774) with Franco Fagioli, Malin Hartelius, Emmanuelle de Negri, accentus, Insula orchestra, conducted by Laurence Equilbey
Label Archiv Produktion, 0289 479 531593

"Equilbey and the Insula Orchestra [sic] are painstaking in their recreation of Gluck's original sound world" Gramophone Magazine, Tim Ashley

MOZART Requiem - 2014
Sandrine Piau, Sara Mingardo, Werner Gura, Christopher Purves, accentus, Insula orchestra, conducted by Laurence Equilbey
Label Naïve, EAN 822186053706

"The wiry Insula orchestra is softened by basset horns and bassoons, while the accentus Choir has a light European texture". The Observer, Nicholas Kenyon

Insula orchestra receives the support of:

www.insulaorchestra.fr/en

For more information on any of the above, please contact:
Nicky Thomas Media
101 Bell Street, London NW1 6TL
+44 (0)20 3714 7594 | +44 (0)20 7258 0909
info@nickythomasmedia.com
www.nickythomasmedia.com